Freedom of Information Policy

1. Introduction

1.1 The Bulwell Academy is committed to upholding the provisions of the Freedom of Information Act 2000 and to the principles of accountability and the general right of access to information, subject to legal exemptions.

1.2 This Policy outlines the Academy's response to the Act and sets out a framework for managing requests.

2. Background

2.1 The Freedom of Information Act 2000 (FoIA) came fully into force in January 2005 and was brought into effect for academies under the Academies Act 2010 in January 2011.

2.2 Under the Act, any person has a legal right to ask for access to information held by the Academy.

They are entitled to be informed whether the Academy holds the information requested and subject to certain exemptions to receive a copy of that information.

2.3 The information which the Academy routinely makes available to the public is included in a Publication Scheme. Requests for other information should be dealt with in accordance with the statutory guidance. While the Act assumes openness, it recognises that certain information is sensitive and so there are exemptions to protect this information.

2.3 The Act is fully retrospective, so that any past records which the Academy holds are covered by the Act. It is an offence to willfully conceal, damage or destroy information in order to avoid responding to an enquiry, so it is important that no records subject to an enquiry are amended or destroyed.

2.4 Requests under Freedom of Information Act can be addressed to anyone in the Academy, so all staff need to be aware of the process for dealing with requests.

2.5 Requests must be made in writing, (which includes email), and should include the enquirers name and correspondence address and state what information they require. An enquirer does not have to make reference to the Act, nor do they have to say why they want the information.

2.6 There is a duty to respond to all requests, informing the enquirer whether or not the information is held, and supplying any information that is held, except where exemptions apply. There is no need to collect data in specific response to a Freedom of information enquiry.

2.7 There is a time limit of 20 days excluding academy holidays for responding to a request.

3. Related Policies and Documents

3.1 Data Protection Act

3.2 Environmental Information Regulations

4. The Policy - Scope

4.1 The Freedom of Information Act joins the Data Protection Act (DPA) and the Environmental Information Regulations as legislation under which anyone is entitled to request information from the Academy.

4.2 Requests for personal data are still covered by the DPA. Individuals can request to see what information the Academy holds about them. This is known as a Subject Access Request, and must be dealt with accordingly.

4.3 Requests for information about anything relating to the environment, such as air, water, land, the natural world or the built environment and any factor or measure affecting these, are covered by the Environmental Information Regulations (EIR); they also cover issues relating to Health and Safety. For example queries about chemicals used in the Academy or on Trust land, phone masts, car parks etc. would all be covered by the EIR. Requests under EIR are dealt with in the same way as those under Freedom of Information, but unlike Freedom of Information Act requests, they do not need to be written and can be verbal.

4.4 If any element of a request to the academy includes personal or environmental information, these elements must be dealt with under DPA or EIR. Any other information is a request under Freedom of Information Act, and must be dealt with accordingly.

5. Obligations and Duties

5.1 The Academy recognises its duty to:

- i. Provide advice and assistance to anyone requesting information. Responses to straightforward verbal requests for information will be made, and the Academy will help enquirers to put more complex verbal requests into writing so that they can be handled under the Act;
- ii. Inform enquirers whether or not the information requested is held, (the duty to confirm or deny), and to provide access to the information held in accordance with the procedures laid down in Appendix I.

6. Publication Scheme

6.1 The Bulwell Academy has adopted the Model Publication Scheme for Academies approved by the Information Commissioner.

6.2 The Publication Scheme and the materials it covers will be readily available from the Academy office and will also be published on the Academy website.

7. Dealing with Requests

7.1 The Academy will:

- i. Respond to all requests in accordance with the procedures laid down in Appendix I.
- ii. Ensure that all staff are aware of the procedures.

8. Exemptions

8.1 Certain information is subject to either absolute or qualified exemptions. The exemptions are listed in Appendix 2.

8.2 When the Academy applies a qualified exemption to a request, we will apply the public interest test procedures, to determine if the public interest in applying the exemption outweighs the public interest in disclosing the information.

8.3 The Academy will maintain a register of requests where we have refused to supply information, and the reasons for the refusal. The register will be retained for 5 years.

9. Public Interest Test

9.1 Unless it is in the public interest to withhold information, it has to be released. We will apply the Public Interest Test before any qualified exemptions are applied.

9.2 For information on applying the Public Interest Test see Appendix 3.

10. Charging

10.1 The Academy reserves the right to refuse to supply information where the cost of doing so exceeds the statutory maximum, currently £450.

10.2 The Academy may charge a fee for complying with requests for information under Freedom of Information where significant costs are incurred. Such fees will be calculated in accordance with Freedom of Information Act regulations. The applicant will be notified of the charge before any information is supplied.

10.3 The Academy will note the guidance from the information commissioner that most requests will be free of charge unless significant costs are incurred.

11. Responsibilities

11.1 The Governing Body has delegated the responsibility for the day to day management of the Freedom of Information regulations to the Principal.

12. Complaints

12.1 Any comments or complaints will be dealt with through the Academy's normal complaints procedure.

12.2 The Academy will aim to determine all complaints within 14 days of receipt. Information relating to the Academy's success rate in meeting this target will be published. The Academy will maintain records of all complaints and their outcome.

12.3 If on investigation the Academy's original decision is upheld, then the Academy has a duty to inform the complainant of their right to appeal to the Information Commissioner's Office.

12.4 Appeals should be made in writing to the Information Commissioners office at:
Freedom of Information/EIR Complaints Resolution, Information Commissioner's Office, Wycliffe House, Water Lane, Wilmslow, Cheshire, SK9 5AF

Appendix I

Procedure for Dealing with Requests

To handle a request for information the governing body or delegated person will need to ask themselves a series of questions. These are set out below and shown on pages 12 - 13 as process maps.

1. Is it a FOI request for information?

A request for information may be covered by one, or all, of three information rights:

- i. Data Protection enquiries (or subject access requests) are ones where the enquirer asks to see what personal information the school holds about the enquirer. If the enquiry is a Data Protection request, follow your existing school DPA guidance.
- ii. Environmental Information Regulations enquiries are ones which relate to air, water, land, natural sites, built environment, flora and fauna, and health, and any decisions and activities affecting any of these. These could therefore include enquiries about recycling, phone masts, school playing fields, car parking etc. If the enquiry is about environmental information, follow the guidance on the Information Commissioner's website.
- iii. Freedom of Information enquiries are concerned with all other information and the reasoning behind decisions and policies. The request does not have to mention the Freedom of Information Act. All requests for information that are not data protection or environmental information requests are covered by the Freedom of Information Act.

2. Is this a valid Freedom of Information request for information?

A Freedom of Information request should:

- i. Be in writing, including email or FAX;
- ii. State the enquirer's name and correspondence address (email addresses are allowed);
- iii. Describe the information requested - there must be enough information to be able to identify and locate the information; and
- iv. Not be covered by one of the other pieces of legislation. Verbal enquiries are not covered by the Freedom of Information Act. Such enquiries can be dealt with where the enquiry is relatively straightforward and can be dealt with satisfactorily. However, for more complex enquiries, and to avoid disputes over what was asked for, you should ask the enquirer to put the request in writing or email, when the request will become subject to Freedom of Information.

3. Does the academy hold the information?

"Holding" information means information relating to the business of the school:

- i. The academy has created, or

- ii. The academy has received from another body or person, or
- iii. Held by another body on the school's behalf.

Information means both hard copy and digital information, including email. If the academy does not hold the information, you do not have to create or acquire it just to answer the enquiry, although a reasonable search should be made before denying that you have got information the school might be expected to hold.

4. Has the information requested already been made public?

If the information requested is already in the public domain, for instance through your Publication Scheme or on your website, direct the enquirer to the information and explain how to access it.

5. Is the request vexatious or manifestly unreasonable or repeated?

The Act states that there is no obligation to comply with vexatious requests. This is taken to mean a request which is designed to cause inconvenience, harassment or expense rather than to obtain information, and would require a substantial diversion of resources or would otherwise undermine the work of the academy. This however does not provide an excuse for bad records management.

6. Can the academy transfer a request to another body?

If the information is held by another public authority, such as your local authority, first check with them they hold it, then transfer the request to them. You must notify the enquirer that you do not hold the information and to whom you have transferred the request. You should answer any parts of the enquiry in respect of information your school does hold.

7. Could a third party's interests be affected by disclosure?

Consultation of third parties may be required if their interests could be affected by release of the information requested, and any such consultation may influence the decision. You do not need to consult where you are not going to disclose the information because you will be applying an exemption. Consultation will be necessary where:

- i. Disclosure of information may affect the legal rights of a third party, such as the right to have certain information treated in confidence or rights under Article 8 of the European Convention on Human Rights;
- ii. The views of the third party may assist you to determine if information is exempt from disclosure, or
- iii. The views of the third party may assist you to determine the public interest.

8. Does an exemption apply?

The presumption of the legislation is that you will disclose information unless the Act provides a specific reason to withhold it. There are more than 20 exemptions. They are set out in Appendix 2 and are mainly intended to protect sensitive or confidential information.

Only where you have real concerns about disclosing the information should you look to see whether an exemption might apply. Even then, where the potential exemption is a qualified exemption, you need to consider the public interest test to identify if the public interest in applying the exemption outweighs the public interest in disclosing it. Therefore, unless it is in the public interest to withhold the information, it has to be released. Appendix 3 contains guidance on conducting a public interest test.

9. What if the request is for personal information?

Personal information requested by the subject of that information is exempt under the Freedom of Information Act as such information is covered by the Data Protection Act. Individuals must, therefore, continue to make a subject access request under the Data Protection Act if they wish to access such information.

10. What if the details contain personal information?

Personal information requested by third parties is also exempt under the Freedom of Information Act where release of that information would breach the Data Protection Act. If a request is made for a document (e.g. Governing Body minutes) which contains personal information whose release to a third party would breach the Data Protection Act, the document may be issued by blanking out the relevant personal information as set out in the redaction procedure. The procedure for redaction is here.

11. How much can we charge?

The Act allows governing bodies to charge for providing information. For further information, see Appendix 4.

The first step is to determine if the threshold (currently £450) would be exceeded. Staff costs should be calculated at £25 per hour. You can take account of the costs of determining if the information is held, locating and retrieving the information, and extracting the information from other documents. You cannot take into account the costs involved in determining whether information is exempt.

If a request would cost less than the appropriate limit, (currently £450) the academy can only charge for the cost of informing the applicant whether the information is held, and communicating the information to the applicant (e.g. photocopying, printing and postage costs).

If a request would cost more than the appropriate limit, (£450) the academy can turn the request down, answer and charge a fee, or answer and waive the fee. If it decides to charge a fee, and does not have other powers to do so, it can charge on the basis of the costs outlined in Appendix 4. Academies will however wish to consider whether calculating the cost of the fee outweighs the cost of providing the information. In practice we recommend that the academy responds to straightforward enquiries free of charge and charge where the costs are significant.

If you are going to charge you must send the enquirer a fees notice and do not have to comply with the request until the fee has been paid. Appendix 4 gives more information on charging.

12. Is there a time limit for replying to the enquirer?

Compliance with a request must be prompt and certainly within the legally prescribed limit of 20 working days, excluding academy holidays. Failure to comply could result in a complaint to the Information Commissioner. The response time starts from the time the request is received. Where you have asked the enquirer for more information to enable you to answer, the 20 days start time begins when this further information has been received.

If a qualified exemption applies and you need more time to consider the public interest test, you should reply within the 20 days stating that an exemption applies but include an estimate of the date by which a decision on the public interest test will be made. This should be within a “reasonable” time, in practice, it is recommended by the Department that normally this should be within 10 working days. Where you have notified the enquirer that a charge is to be made, the time period stops until payment is received and then continues again once payment has been received.

13. What action is required to refuse a request?

If the information is not to be provided, the person dealing with the request must immediately contact the person in the academy with delegated responsibility for FOI to ensure that the case has been properly considered and the reasons for refusal are sound. If it is decided to refuse a request, you need to send a refusals notice, which must contain.

- i. The fact that the responsible person cannot provide the information asked for;
- ii. Which exemption(s) you are claiming apply?
- iii. Why the exemption(s) apply to this enquiry (if it is not self-evident);
- iv. Reasons for refusal if based on cost of compliance (see Appendix 4)
- v. In the case of non-absolute exemptions, how you have applied the public interest test, specifying the public interest factors taken into account before reaching the decision (see Appendix 3)
- vi. Reasons for refusal on vexatious or repeated rounds
- vii. The internal complaints procedure.

For monitoring purposes and in case of an appeal against a decision not to release the information or an investigation by the Information Commissioner, the responsible person must keep a record of all enquiries where all or part of the requested information is withheld and exemptions are claimed. The record must include the reasons for the decision to withhold the information. Records should be retained for 5 years. There are no requirements to keep records where you have supplied the information requested.

14. What do I do if someone complains?

Any written (including email) expression of dissatisfaction - even if it does not specifically seek a review should be handled through the Academy’s existing complaints procedure which should be fair and impartial.

The procedure should be clear and non-bureaucratic. Wherever practicable the review should be handled by someone not involved in the original decision. The Governing Body should set and publish a target time for determining complaints and information on the success rate in meeting the target. The academy should maintain records of all complaints and their outcome.

When the original request has been reviewed and the outcome is that the information should be disclosed this should be done as soon as practicable. When the outcome is that procedures within the academy have not been properly followed, the academy should review procedures to prevent any recurrence. When the outcome upholds the Academy’s the original decision or action, the applicant should be informed of their right to appeal to the Information Commissioner. The appeal should be made in writing to:

FOI/EIR Complaints Resolution Information Commissioner's Office
Wycliffe House, Water Lane, Wilmslow, Cheshire, SK9 5AF.

Appendix 2

Exemptions

1. Guidance

Although decisions on disclosure should be made on a presumption of openness, the Freedom of Information Act recognises the need to preserve confidentiality and protect sensitive material in some circumstances.

You cannot withhold information in response to a valid request unless one of the following applies:-

- i. An exemption to disclosure, or
- ii. The information sought is not held, or
- iii. The request is considered vexatious or repeated or
- iv. The cost of compliance exceeds the threshold (see Appendix 4)

2. The Duty to Confirm or Deny

A person applying for information has the right to be told if the information requested is held by the academy, and if that is the case to have the information sent (subject to any of the exemptions). This obligation is known as the academy's 'duty to confirm or deny' that it holds the information. However the academy does not have to confirm or deny if:

- i. The exemption is an absolute exemption (see paragraph 6), or
- ii. In the case of qualified exemptions (see paragraph 8), confirming or denying would itself disclose exempted information

3. Exemptions

A series of exemptions are set out in the Act which allow the withholding of information in relation to an enquiry. Some are very specialised in their application (such as national security) and would not usually be relevant to academy's. There are more than 20 exemptions but academies are likely to use only a few of them.

There are two general categories of exemptions:-

- i. Absolute: where there is no requirement to confirm or deny that the information is held, disclose the information or consider the public interest; and
- ii. Qualified: where, even if an exemption applies, there is a duty to consider the public interest in disclosing information

4. What are the Absolute Exemptions?

There are 8 absolute exemptions listed in the Act. Even where an absolute exemption applies:

- i. It does not mean that you cannot disclose in all cases; it means that disclosure is not required by the Act. A decision could be taken to ignore the exemption and release the information taking into account all the facts of the case
 - ii. There is still a legal obligation to provide reasonable advice and assistance to the enquirer
- The absolute exemptions in the Act are set out below. Those which might be relevant to the Academy are marked ***

4.1 Information accessible to the enquirer by other means* (Section 21).

If information is reasonably accessible to the applicant by another route than the Act, it is exempt information. This is the case even if the enquirer would have to pay for the information under that alternative route. This exemption includes cases where you are required to give information under other legislation, or where the information is available via the Publication Scheme.

4.2 Information dealing with security matters (Section 23).

This applies to information directly or indirectly supplied by, or relating to, bodies dealing with security matters such as GCHQ, MI5, MI6, Special Forces and the National Criminal Intelligence Service.

4.3 Court records (Section 32)

(See also the qualified exemption under Section 30 concerning investigations and proceedings conducted by public authorities)

This applies to information related to proceedings in a court or tribunal or served on a public authority for the purposes of proceedings.

4.4 Parliamentary Privilege (Section 34)

This exempts information if it is required for the purpose of avoiding an infringement of the Parliamentary privilege. Parliamentary privilege is an immunity whereby MPs cannot be prosecuted for sedition or sued for libel or slander over anything said during proceedings in the House.

4.5 Prejudice to the effective conduct of public affairs (Section 36) - see also the qualified exemption part of Section 36

This relates to the maintenance of the collective responsibility of Ministers.

4.6 Personal information* (Section 40) - see also the qualified exemption part of Section 40.

Where enquirers ask to see information about themselves, this is exempt under the Act because it is covered by the Data Protection Act. Consult your existing school Data Protection guidance.

4.7 Information provided in confidence* (Section 41)

This relates to information obtained from a person if its disclosure would constitute a breach of confidence actionable by that, or another, person.

4.8 Prohibitions on disclosure* (Section 44)

Information is exempt where its disclosure is prohibited under any other legislation by order of a court or where it would constitute a contempt of court or where it is incompatible with any EC obligation.

5. What are the Qualified Exemptions?

With qualified exemptions, even if it is decided that an exemption applies, there is a duty to consider the public interest in confirming or denying that the information exists and in disclosing information. Guidance on carrying out the public interest test is at Annex C. The qualified exemptions in the Act are set out below. Those which might be relevant to academies are marked

5.1 Information intended for future publication* (Section 22)

If at the time the request was made, information is held with a view to publication, then it is exempt from disclosure if it is reasonable that it should not be disclosed until the intended date of publication. This could apply for instance to statistics published at set intervals, for example annually or where information is incomplete and it would be inappropriate to publish prematurely. Remember, you still have a legal duty to provide reasonable advice and assistance.

5.2 National security (Section 24) (see also absolute exemption 23) Information is exempt for the purposes of safeguarding national security.

5.3 Defence (Section 26)

Information is exempt if its disclosure would prejudice the defence of the UK.

5.4 International relations (Section 27)

Information is exempt if its disclosure would or would be likely to, prejudice relations between the UK and any other state, international organisation.

5.5 Relations within UK (Section 28)

Information is exempt if its disclosure would or would be likely to, prejudice relations between any administrations in the UK i.e. the Government, Scottish Administration, Northern Ireland Assembly, or National Assembly of Wales.

5.6 The Economy (Section 29)

Information is exempt if its disclosure would, or would be likely to, prejudice the economic or financial interests of the UK

5.7 Investigations and proceedings conducted by public authorities* (Section 30)

Information is exempt if it has at any time been held by the academy for the purposes of criminal investigations or proceedings, such as determining whether a person should be charged with an offence or whether a charged person is guilty, or investigations which may lead to a decision to institute criminal proceedings. The duty to confirm or deny does not apply to such information.

5.8 Law enforcement* (Section 31)

Information which is not exempt under Section 30 Investigations and Proceedings, may be exempt under this exemption in the event that disclosure would, or would be likely to, prejudice the following among others:

- the prevention or detection of crime
- the apprehension or prosecution of offenders
- the administration of justice
- the exercise of functions such as ascertaining if a person has broken the law, is responsible for improper conduct, whether circumstances justify regulatory action, ascertaining a person's fitness or competence in relation to their profession, ascertaining the cause of an accident or protecting or recovering charities or its properties
- any civil proceedings brought by or on behalf of the academy which arise out of an investigation carried out for any of the purposes mentioned above.

The duty to confirm or deny does not arise where prejudice would result to any of these matters.

5.9 Audit Functions (Section 33)

Information is exempt if its disclosure would, or would be likely to, prejudice the exercise of an authorities functions in relation to the audit of the accounts of other public authorities. It does not apply to internal audit reports.

5.10 Formulation of government policy (Section 35)

Information held is exempt information if it relates to the formulation or development of government policy, ministerial communications, advice by Law Officers (e.g. Attorney General) and the operation of any Ministerial private office.

5.11 Prejudice to the conduct of public affairs (Section 36)

Information likely to prejudice the maintenance of the convention of the collective responsibility of Ministers or likely to inhibit the free and frank provision of advice or exchange of views

5.12 Communications with the Queen* (Section 37)

Information is exempt if it relates to communications with the Queen, the Royal Family or Royal Household or if it relates to the award of honours. The duty to confirm or deny does not arise where this exemption applies.

5.13 Health and Safety* (Section 38)

Information is exempt if its disclosure would or would be likely to endanger the safety or physical or mental health of any individual. The duty to confirm or deny does not arise where prejudice would result.

5.14 Environmental information* (Section 39)

Information is exempt under FOI where it is covered by the Environmental Information Regulations. Environmental information can cover information relating to: air, water, land, natural sites, built environment, flora and fauna, and health. It also covers all information relating to decisions or activities affecting any of these.

5.15 Personal information* (Section 40)

See also the absolute exemption part of Section 40 Where an individual seeks information about themselves Data Protection Act powers apply.

Where the information concerns a third party, it is exempt if its disclosure would contravene the Data Protection Act, or the data protection principles; or if the person to whom the information relates would not have a right of access to it because it falls under one of the exemptions to the Data Protection Act. The duty to confirm or deny does not arise in relation to this information if doing so would be incompatible with any of the above.

5.16 Legal professional privilege* (Section 42)

Legal professional privilege covers any advice given by legal advisers, solicitors and barristers. Generally such information will be privileged. An academy wishing to disclose the information will need to seek consent from the provider of the advice. This exemption covers all such information where a claim to legal professional privilege can be maintained in legal proceedings. The duty to confirm or deny does not arise where to do so would involve the disclosure of such information.

5.17 Commercial interests* (Section 43)

Information is exempt if it constitutes a trade secret or would be likely to prejudice the commercial interests of any person or body (including the academy). The duty to confirm or deny does not arise where prejudice would result to commercial interests but not where the information constitutes a trade secret.

6. Protective Markings and Applying Exemptions

When considering if an exemption to disclosure should apply, bear in mind that the presence of a protective marking (Restricted, Confidential or secret, with or without descriptors such as Staff, Management, Commercial etc.) does not constitute an exemption and is not in itself sufficient grounds on which to prevent disclosure. Each case must be considered on its merits.

7. Timing

Where information has previously been withheld, it must not be assumed that any subsequent requests for the same information will also be refused. Sensitivity of information decreases with age and the impact of any disclosure will be different depending on when the request is received.

Therefore, for each request, it will be necessary to consider the harm that could result at the time of the request and, while taking into account any previous exemption applications, each case should be considered separately.

8. Next Steps

In all cases, before writing to the enquirer, the person given responsibility for Freedom of Information by the academy governing body will need to ensure that the case has been properly considered, and that the reasons for refusal, or public interest test refusal, are sound.

Appendix 3

Applying the Public Interest Test

1. Background

Having established that a qualified exemption(s) definitely applies to a particular case, you must then carry out a public interest test to identify if the public interest in applying the exemption outweighs the public interest in disclosing it. Therefore, unless it is in the public interest to withhold the information, it has to be released. Although precedent and a developed case law will play a part, individual circumstances will vary and each case will need to be considered on its own merits.

2. Carrying out the test

It is worth noting that what is in the public interests may not necessarily be the same that which may be of interest to the public. It may be irrelevant that a matter may be the subject of public curiosity. In most cases it will be relatively straightforward to decide where the balance of the public interest in disclosure lies. However, there will inevitably be cases where the decision is a difficult one. Applying such a test depends to a high degree on objective judgement and a basic knowledge of the subject matter and its wider impact in the academy and possibly wider. Factors that might be taken into account when weighing the public interest include:

For Disclosure	Against Disclosure
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Is disclosure likely to increase access to information held by the academy? • Is disclosure likely to give the reasons for a decision or allow individuals to understand decisions affecting their lives or assist them in challenging those decisions? • Is disclosure likely to improve the accountability and transparency of the Academy in the use of public funds and help to show that it obtains value for money? • Is disclosure likely to contribute to public debate and assist the understanding of existing or proposed policy? • Is disclosure likely to increase public participation in decision making? • Is disclosure likely to increase public participation in political processes in general? • Is disclosure likely to bring to light information affecting public safety? • Is disclosure likely to reduce further enquiries on the topic? 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Is disclosure likely to distort public reporting or be misleading because it is incomplete? • Is premature disclosure likely to prejudice fair scrutiny, or release sensitive issues still on the internal agenda or evolving? • Is disclosure likely to cause unnecessary public alarm or confusion? • Is disclosure likely to seriously jeopardise the Academy’s legal or contractual position? • Is disclosure likely to infringe other legislation e.g. Data Protection Act? • Is disclosure likely to create a controversial precedent on the release of information or impair your ability to obtain information in the future? • Is disclosure likely to adversely affect the Academy’s proper functioning and discourage openness in expressing opinions? If a large amount of information on the topic has already been made available, would further disclosure shed any more light or serve any useful purpose.
